CASE 16633 RPT 16633. WE FORWARD THE FOLLOWING FROM NEW YORK:

1. THE INTERESTED FI RPT FI AREA DIVISION WELCOMED YOUR DETAILED INVENTORY OF THE VERNON RPT VERNON MATERIAL. HAVANA FI RPT FI STATION HAS ADVISED THAT VERNON WAS IN TOUCH WITH AMERICAN EMBASSY IN PAST AND IS OF OPINION THAT IMPORTANT PART OF VERNON MATERIAL IS IN CIA POSSESSION. THIS LAST PROBABILITY - SUPPORTED BY YOUR DESCRIPTION AND OPINIONS - HAS PRACTICALLY ELIMINATED DESIRE TO SECURE THE FOLDERS. THE NEED FOR INVOLVING CUSTOMS IN A SERIES OF DELIVERIES AND VERNON'S DESIRE TO HAVE THE FOLDERS RETURNED ARE FURTHER FACTORS COMPLICATING THE SITUATION. FINALLY FI/WH RPT FI/WH DIVISION STATES THAT THE CONDITIONS IMPOSED BY VERNON WARRANT A SUSPICION THAT THIS DEAL HAS BEEN DESIGNED FOR EXPLOITATION OF THE PRIO GROUP RPT PRIO GROUP IN THE NOVEMBER ELECTIONS IN CUBA.

2. IN VIEW OF THE ABOVE, WE HAVE NOT RPT NOT FORWARDED YOUR LETTER BUT SUBSTITUTED A DRAFT ALONG LINES SUGGESTED BY FI RPT FI. Chief, Contact Division

22 September 1958

Chief, New Orleans Office

Case 10003

1. Confirming and supplementing our several long-distance telephone conversations, I report herewith concerning my interview with Mr. Frank Jackson and two members of the Palo Socarras group in Miami, Florida, on 17 and 19 September 1958. This portion of the report is concerned with the mechanics of the operation and the personalities involved. It would be, I presume, of little interest to SI. A supplemental section contains a description of the material offered by the Cuban refugees, which portion, I assume, you will turn over to SI/MI Division.

2. On arrival in Miami, I called at the office of the FBI with a view to informing that Agency of my presence and of the general nature of the activities I proposed to engage in, so that the agents of the Bureau would not be unduly surprised if they learned of my activities from other agents who were presumably keeping my proposed contacts under surveillance. The SAC was absent from the office. I accordingly talked with one of the Duty Officers, a Special Agent named Schilldecker, whom I had met before and who has frequently cooperated with our representative in Miami, John H. Dyer. Schilldecker was most pleasant and cooperative. I informed him that the matter on which I was engaged had been coordinated with FBI headquarters through Mr. Charles Bates and that the Bureau interposed no objections. I then told him, in general terms, about the activities of Mr. Frank Jackson in Washington. The agent said that he had known Jackson for about 10 years and that he considered Jackson to be an unreliable person and a complete opportunist. He said that Jackson had been in Naval Intelligence during World War II and that since the end of his tour of active duty he had held a number of jobs in some of which he had been able to make a success. These jobs included the agency for a wine manufacturer, the position of deputy sheriff in Miami Beach, the agency for a maker of concrete blocks and several other enterprises. In one of his jobs Jackson had been suspected of pilferage and had been discharged on that account, although no prosecution was instituted. Jackson is now, according to Schilldecker, operating a private detective agency and is also acting as public relations adviser to Palo and his group. He is believed to be the owner of a corporation known as "Enterprises Many, Inc," the exact operations of which are unknown.

3. Schilldecker said that Jackson claimed to have excellent sources of information on Cuba and that he particularly had referred to a Captain Salvador Blas y Verson, a political refugee from Cuba, who had engaged quite intensively in anti-Communist activities. Schilldecker said that the "legal attache" (I assume that means an FBI representative) at the US Embassy in Havana had at one time written to the SAC in Miami about Verson and had said that the latter had once been in a position to obtain valuable information concerning the activities of the Communists in Cuba, but that, in his belief, Verson was given to flights of fancy.

4. Schilldacker pointed out that, although the criminal cases against Prio and Gurti had been ended with pleas of nolo contendere and fines, cases were still pending against four other Cuban exiles who are allegedly engaged in the gun-running plot. He said that inasmuch as the cases were primarily the interest of the Customs Department, the FBI was not immediately interested. He voiced the opinion that Customs representatives were maintaining surveillance on the defendants in the various suits.

5. Returning from the FBI office, I telephoned Jackson, as arranged, at 3:00 p.m. and identified myself as directed in WA-9779. Jackson said that it would be impossible to arrange a meeting with the Cubans that afternoon, since the leader of the group would not be available. He said that a meeting could be arranged for the following morning, Sunday, 19 September, at 11:00 a.m., and I accordingly arranged to meet the group in a room at the Columbus Hotel which I had reserved for that purpose. I suggested a preliminary meeting with Jackson so as to obtain information about the persons I was to see, but he said that that would not be feasible on Saturday and that he would drop in on Sunday morning a few minutes ahead of the rest of the group.

6. Jackson arrived at the designated room on Sunday morning at 10:45 a.m. He did not request the exhibition of credentials and I did not exhibit them. He said that the meeting with the Cubans would have to be postponed until 4:00 o'clock Sunday afternoon, inasmuch as the leader of the group was at that time engaged in preparing a speech. He said he would bring two members of the group to the Columbus Hotel at 4:00 p.m., and I agreed to meet them at that time.

7. Jackson said that the two men he wanted me to talk to were Senor Carlos Novia and a Captain Verson, whose full name Mr. Jackson did not know. He said that Carlos Novia is a leading Cuban consulting engineer and is a graduate of the US Military Academy of the class of 1919. For a short time he was President of Cuba and was subsequently Ambassador to the US. He is a member of Prio's Authentic Party, but belongs to the conservative wing which is highly critical of some of Prio's actions. Novia was exiled from Cuba when his name was found on an envelope in the possession of Sanchez Arango. He is under indictment in the US District Court but has pleaded not guilty to charges of gun-running growing out of the same incident concerning which Prio pleaded "nolo contendere."

8. Captain Verson, according to Jackson, is and has been for many years the president of the Anti-Communist League of Cuba. During a part of the terms of Grau San Martin and Prio, Verson held the rank of Captain in the Cuban army and was in charge of a counter-espionage section dealing with Cuban Communists. Verson, in his official capacity, was largely instrumental in having the Soviet Embassy in Havana closed. He was removed by Batista from his Army post in 1952 and, after spending some months in sanctuary in the Uruguayan Embassy in Havana, he came to Miami in June of 1954.

9. Jackson also wished me to meet Prio, Dr. Pedro Martinez Farga and Mrs. Ortega. Prio was currently in New York. Martinez was formerly Ambassador to the US and a delegate to the United Nations. He was described by Jackson as one of the most brilliant persons he had ever met and he said that I could obtain a great deal of information from him concerning the present political and economic situation in Cuba. He was not immediately available and had no connection with the documents allegedly possessed by Versen. Ortega, a former newspaper columnist and member of Batista's Consultative Council, was also described by Jackson as a prolific source of information on Cuban political matters. He too was not immediately available and had no connection with the Versen documents. In the circumstances, I told Jackson that I would defer interviews with Riquelme and Ortega until some future time.

10. At 4:00 p.m. on Sunday, 19 September, Jackson returned to the room in the Columbus Hotel, bringing with him Senior Rovia and Captain Versen. Jackson introduced me as Mr. Druton, a pseudonym I had supplied. He told them that I was a representative of the US Government and that we were interested in the documents in Versen's possession. He assured them that the information which they might give me would be treated as highly classified material, and he then left the meeting. It developed that Captain Versen could not speak any English (incidentally, Jackson does not speak Spanish), so that it was necessary to converse with him through Rovia, who acted as interpreter. Rovia is fluent in English and Spanish.

11. The substance of the information supplied by Versen concerning the documents in his possession is contained in the second part of this report. Versen appeared to attach a very high historical value to the contents of his documents and seemed anxious to make them available to US authorities. He claimed any desire for a fee and merely said that he wished to retain the originals, since he considered that they constituted an authentic account of the growth of the Communist movement in Cuba, but that we would be entirely welcome to photostat or otherwise copy the contents of his files.

12. At the conclusion of the interview, I thanked the two Cubans for their courtesy and cooperation and told Senior Rovia that I would get in touch with him later in the week either directly or through Mr. Jackson.

13. I enclose herewith a letter to Rovia confirming our interest in the Versen documents and asking him to notify me when it is expected that they will begin arriving, so that we may attempt to facilitate their entry. You will note that I have signed the letter with the name "Druton" which is how I was introduced to Rovia and Versen by Jackson. I think the letter should be mailed in Washington rather than in New Orleans, so as to allay any suspicions that Rovia may harbor that I am not actually a government representative. You will note that I have suggested that Rovia write to me in New Orleans in care of Miss Jean H. Yates at Post Office Box 1016. He will, no doubt, assume that this is a letter-drop.

14. In view of the fact that I refer by implication to the Customs Department, I suggest that you hold the letter to Rovia until you or Ciesielski have discussed the matter with Mr. Emerick, who is the superior of Mr. Wyatt, the Supervising Customs Agent in Miami. I suggest that the letter be sent air mail, unregistered. I have left the date blank and I request that you insert it before mailing. If you wish to change the letter in any way, please do so. Rovia does not, of course, know my handwriting, so that the letter can be signed by anyone.

1. For your information, the following requirements were submitted by OCI for action by FI.

2. Background

CO-A-20309 states that Carlos Prio has been transferring funds from his Miami bank to his ~~BROTHER~~ Francisco Prio, c/o Guaranty Trust Company, New York. CO-B-67546 states that there is a rumor that Carlos Prio has invested money in a chain of hotels in Switzerland.

For some months past Carlos Prio has been suspected of preparing an invasion of Cuba to oust Batista; however, other reports indicate that Francisco Prio is engaged in handling transfers out of the US for Carlos "for investment abroad", i. e., for unspecified non-revolutionary purposes.

3. Requirements

a. Evidence that Carlos Prio has been investing in Swiss hotels and details of the transaction, e.g., date, price paid, intermediaries, etc.

b. Any information available of other foreign investments that he has made.

US bank at which Carlos and Francesa Frio Socarras have accounts. Neither Carlos nor Francesa has sought the bank's advice on investments.

Francesa's account shows that in early June 1953 there was a balance of $11,641.72, that the highest balance reached was $11,641.72 on 19 June 1953, and that by 30 July 1953 the account had fallen to $1,434.38. There has been no activity since that date.

Carlos' account shows the following:

	Debit	Credits	Prev. Bal US$7,724.12
May		50,000	57,724.12
June	340.39		57,383.73
June	150.00		57,233.73
June	5,000.00		52,233.73

July	5,000.00		98,433.73
August	100,000.00		-1,566.27

The deposit of US$4,500 on 3 July was in the form of a check drawn by the wife of Miguel Socarras, Fla.

The deposit of US$15,000 on 9 July was in the form of a check on the Bank of America, New York, the drawer's signature illegible.

The withdrawal of 26 August was in cash. Carlos asked for one thousand dollars and was given mostly one hundred dollar bills and a few five hundred.

During 1952, the most unusual activity of Carlos' account was the deposit of US$100,000 on 25 September, a US$150,000 deposit on 25 September, and a withdrawal of US$140,000. Since the withdrawal was by check, which was cashed by the depositor after cancellation, the identity of the payee is not known.

Mrs. Frio has a safety deposit at a branch of this bank and her husband.

as access to it. We probably could learn the extent of the activity which has taken place with regard to this box if it would serve any good purpose.

2. During the week of 28 August-4 September 1953, Carlos presented one hundred thousand pesos in new bills at the bank, requesting dollars therefor. He was told the currency would have to be sent to the Banco Nacional de Cuba for verification and that the bank in all probability would want to know the identity of the person exchanging the pesos. Carlos reluctantly agreed to this but said he had previously sold a large sum of pesos to another bank without difficulty. Carlos said his reason for requesting the exchange was that he feared a devaluation of the Cuban peso because of the rapid depletion of the gold reserves in the US.

ACTIVITY WHICH HAS TAKEN PLACE IN CONNECTION WITH THIS BOX BUT COULD POSSIBLY DO SO IF IT WOULD SERVE ANY GOOD PURPOSE.

WITHIN THE PAST WEEK CARLOS PRIO PRESENTED ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND
PESOS TO THE BANK AND REQUESTED CASH IN EXCHANGE THEREFOR. WE UNDERSTAND THAT THE ENTIRE AMOUNT WAS IN NEW BILLS. HE WAS TOLD THAT THE CURRENCY WOULD HAVE TO BE SENT TO CUBA FOR EXAMINATION AND THAT IN ALL PROBABILITY THE BANCO NACIONAL DE CUBA WOULD WANT TO KNOW THE IDENTITY OF THE PERSON EXCHANGING THE PESOS. CARLOS
SAID HE WOULD RATHER NOT HAVE HIS NAME DISCLOSED BUT CONSENTED TO BE NAMED IF THE BANK INSISTED UPON IT. AT THAT TIME, CARLOS TOLD
THE BANK OFFICIALS THAT HE HAD PREVIOUSLY SOLD A LARGE SUM OF PESOS
TO ANOTHER BANK WITHOUT ANY DIFFICULTY.

APPARENTLY IN THE COURSE OF THE NEGOTIATIONS FOR THE EXCHANGE OF THE PESOS CARLOS REMARKED THAT HE FEARS A DEVALUATION OF THE CUBAN CURRENCY BECAUSE OF THE RAPID DEPLETION OF CUBAN GOLD RESERVES IN THIS COUNTRY, WHICH WOULD RESULT IN A LARGE FINANCIAL LOSS TO HIM.

OUR CONTACT IS AT THE MAIN OFFICE OF THE GUARANTY TRUST AND THE
